title Lush band in "Personal Letter"

Description Peter Metz spoke with Lush just before their concert, which they played on Friday (6.08) during the Festival. The artists told us that after years they had to re-learn their songs before the live performances and talked about their favorite pastime while they were recording their second album and when there was no universal internet access yet.

At the end of the interview, the journalist admitted that on the occasion of this conversation he was able to persuade Annie Gacek for something he would never do ...
